

Peter Keevil- Biography

Peter is an experienced and high quality process facilitator, with substantial experience in the education sector, where for several years he worked as Head of Organisational Development for the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE).

In this context, he operated in a multi agency environment, as he supported HEFCE in the development of its stakeholder relationships and its partnership style of working. In 2005, he was involved in a Shared Services initiative, involving HEFCE, the Dept for Education and Skills, the Teacher Development Agency, the Learning and Skills Council and the Qualifications and Curriculum Agency, and is well versed with the factors that create collaborative success.

Peter works closely with John Cooper Associates, occupational psychologists, who are leaders in the UK in the field of emotional intelligence and Will Schutz's Human Element models. Peter believes that effective relationships are often the key to successful delivery and uses his facilitation and communication skills to support people in their own development. His experience of Leadership development and the elements of Openness, Inclusion and Control enable him to make valuable contributions.
